

TROUBLE OVER A BUCKET OF BEER

Luther Butts Gives Policeman Price a Lively Chase.

Fights With Negro—Both Men are Fined in Court Today.

There was considerable excitement about 5:30 yesterday evening in the down town district over a "scrap" of small proportions that occurred in front of the Caudy saloon on Main street, between Luther Butts, white, and John Sorrell, colored.

The trouble started over the purchase of a bucket of beer and Butts was said to have done most of the fighting. Policeman Price was standing near Casady & Cox's shoe store, corner Main and Second streets, and saw the men grapple and drop to the sidewalk. He ran toward them, but Butts saw him coming and started through the saloon to the alley by the postoffice. He then ran north through the alley, and made his way across the street and through the alleys until he was finally caught near the residence of Dr. D. D. VanOsdol, on Third street, between Morgan and Harrison. Policeman Price ran through the saloon after Butts, passing the negro, who went south on Main street. Sorrell was afterward arrested in front of Larkins' saloon.

Both men pleaded guilty to the charge of assault and battery in Squire Jackson's court this morning and were heavily fined. Sorrell's fine was paid by his wife, but Butts went to jail for the required number of days.

WANTS A DIVORCE AND $3000 ALIMONY

After Being Married Nearly
Fifty Years Mrs. Nancy Mc
Daniel Wants Separation

After having lived with him since August 22, 1856, Mrs. Nancy McDaniel today filed suit in the circuit court for divorce against James McDaniel, alleging habitual drunkenness. The couple separated in April last.

Mrs. McDaniel avers that her husband has been a habitual drunkard for the last four or five years. She claims that she had agreed to purchase and hold jointly with him eighty acres of land valued at $4800, but she claims that when the land was bought, the defendant had it decided to himself alone. She asks that he be restrained from selling any of this land or his $800 worth of personal property until the suit is settled. She demands, besides the divorce, $3000 alimony.

CAUGHT BETWEEN ENGINE AND CAR

A C. H. & D. Brakeman Suffers Very Painful Injuries.

Ambrose Tansley, a C. H. & D. brakeman, was caught between the engine and the Wallace circus advertising car and severely injured about the shoulder and chest while making a coupling at Connersville yesterday evening, on the west bound passenger train. He did not think much of the injury at the time although it pained him greatly. Upon the train's arrival here, however, he sought medical aid and was treated by Dr. D. D. VanOsdol, the local C. H. & D. surgeon. Two ribs were broken. After the injuries had been dressed Tansley was sent to Indianapolis.

POPULAR YOUNG PEOPLE'S ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

Handsomely engraved cards have been issued announcing that Miss Alma Glore, of his city, and Mr. John J. Schoenholtz will be united in marriage, Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock on July 31st, at the home of the bride's father, Mr. Samuel Glore, on Perkins street. Mr. Schoenholtz is a nephew of Mr. Adam Schoenholtz, of Connersville, and at one time made his residence there. He is engaged in the manufacture of chemicals at Indianapolis, and is proprietor of the Indiana Chemical Co. Miss Glore is a beautiful young lady and has a large circle of friends.

DENNIS KELLEY RAISES TROUBLE

Witness in Bankert Trial Punches Face of Bridegroom at Wedding.

Dennis Kelley is a strenuous Laurel citizen of Irish extraction, as the name may indicate. He distinguished himself as a witness in the Bankert trial in this city. He has a brother John, who has long been industriously besieging the heart of a blooming widow at Connersville. It seems she capitulated, for Saturday night they were made one. Dennis was at the wedding or thereabouts and made his presence felt.

Some years ago, Dennis became the husband of Mrs. Harry's daughter. It may be that he resented the double relationship of mother-in-law and sister-in-law. Anyhow he smote John, his brother-father-in-law in the face, causing much blood to flow, but inflicted no serious wounds.

It is said those present report that "a most delightful time was had."

POSTMASTERS ARE DULY INSTRUCTED

Will Keep Record on Second-Class Matter for Six Months.

In accordance with the Overstreet provision of the postoffice bill, Postmaster General Cortelyou has issued instructions to postmasters as to how they shall keep a record from July 1 to December 31 this year of all second class mail matter received and handled by them. This is to include matter received for free distribution and also at the 1 cent a pound rate, so as to show the weight in pounds respectively by classes of daily newspapers, weekly and other than daily newspapers, magazines, scientific periodicals, trade journals, miscellaneous periodicals and sample copies of the same. With the data thus obtained the Postmaster-General will make an estimate of the average length of haul of the respective classes and report the results to Congress.

A statement issued at the department says: "At all the larger post-offices mailing such matter a daily record will be kept showing the number of pounds mailed of each periodical and the States to which dispatches are made. The data will be consolidated by classes each month and forwarded to the department, where the necessary computations will be made. At all other postoffices at which such mailings are made a permanent record will be kept of the number of pounds mailed to subscribers and as sample copies and sent free in the country, together with a classification of the periodicals mailed. The data will be furnished the department quarterly and tabulated as required for the purpose of the act."

The Postoffice Department's investigations are expected to result in legislation that will put an end to the abuses of the second-class mailing privileges.

ATTORNEY GEN. CHANGES PLANS

Mr. Moody Takes a Hand in the Cleveland Inquiry.

District Attorney Thinks He Has a Plan to Bring Standard to its Knees.

Cleveland, O., July 17.—Basing his opinion upon the testimony already submitted to the federal grand jury in this district, Attorney General Moody believes that the government has at last secured the evidence which will lead to bringing the Standard Oil company to its knees.

The return of District Attorney Sullivan this morning from an all-day conference with the attorney general yesterday at New York marks a complete change in the plans of the government in connection with the fight to stamp out trade discriminations in favor of giant corporations.

The change of plans includes a complete reversal regarding G. J. Grammer, vice president of the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern railway. Grammer will not be indicted in this or any other federal district. Instead he will be asked to assist the government in forging a chain of evidence about the necks of some of the biggest Standard Oil officials in the country. Acting upon the orders of District Attorney Sullivan, Assistant Attorney Gary late yesterday afternoon issued another subpoena for the appearance of Grammer before the grand jury this morning. Grammer, who happened to be in the city yesterday, was immediately served with the subpoena by Deputy District Marshal Fanning. He seemed pleased with the turn of events which makes it certain that he is not to be made the scapegoat for violations of the law on the part of others.

The switch on the part of the government in finally deciding to summon Grammer as a witness is explained by the statement made yesterday that the single desire of the department of justice at present is to get at the Standard Oil company. A telegram from District Attorney Sullivan said that nothing was to be left undone to accomplish this purpose. The attorney general is firmly of the opinion that indictments can be secured here, and District Attorney Sullivan resumed work at the grand jury today with this end in view.

In addition to ordering the issuance of a subpoena for Grammer, Sullivan wired to have all the employees of the Lake Shore railway who have testified before the grand jury recalled. These witnesses include James L. Clark, general western freight agent, and C. A. Slauson, freight agent of Chicago; M. C. Tully, R. H. Huddleston, G. B. Wheeler and H. L. Meyer, all employed in the Cleveland offices.

It is known that the government officials are eager to obtain one more link in the evidence already secured against the Standard Oil company. A most determined effort will be made to complete the chain through Grammer and Clark. What the government officials want particularly is the names of the Standard Oil company officials through whom it is charged rebating arrangements were made with the Lake Shore and other railways. With these names in their possession, the government attorneys will be ready to strike.

The attorneys are certain that some one of the witnesses to be called today knows the definite information so greatly desired.

The Norris Fertilizer company had a fine 26 acre field of wheat on the A. L. Winship farm photographed this afternoon. Frank Wallace did the work.

Alvan Moor, receiver for the defunct Equitable Building Association today, through his attorneys, Watson, Tittsworth & Green, filed suit for foreclosure of mortgage against John and Malinda Creigor, demanding $850.

Mrs. Cornelia Lyons will have charge of the dining tent at the Chattanooga this year.

Mrs. Nelson Hendricks and daughter, Bertha, of Salem, are expected here soon to visit Mr. and Mrs. Lee Hendricks for a week.

WORLD OF WIRES

Wonderful Growth of the Western Union Telegraph Co. in a Few Years.

A few facts and figures, drawn from the recent annual report of President Clowry, of the Western Union Telegraph company, may help to give some conception of the enormous interests, financial and otherwise, which would have to be set aside before the wireless age could come in. In 1866, the company had 37,380 miles of poles and cables, 75,686 miles of wire, and 2350 offices. In 1905 these items stood: 200,224 miles of poles and cables, 1,184,557 miles of wire, and 23,814 offices. The first year in which the number of messages was recorded was 1867, when the total is set down as 5,879,282. By 1880 the number of messages sent had increased to 29,215,509, and last year the number was 67,477,320, not including messages sent over leased wires or under railroad contracts. The average toll per message in 1868 was $1047. In 1905 it was 316.

DIES FROM CUTTING CORNS TOO CLOSELY

Gangrene Resulted and Proved Fatal to Valentine Hess.

As the result of cutting too closely a corn on his toe, Valentine Hess, one of the oldest residents of S. Paul, died at four o'clock Monday morning at the home of his son, George Hess, Saint Paul. Several weeks ago while cutting away a part of a corn which had caused him some pain and trouble, Mr. Hess cut closer than he had intended, and in a short time the toe became inflamed and painfully swollen. Simple remedies were applied and later a physician was called, but in spite of all that could be done, the inflammation increased until gangrene developed and resulted in the death of the patient.

THE RURAL ROUTES HAVE HEAVY MAIL

Total of 187,578 Pieces Handled
During Last Three Months.

The twelve rural mail routes that extend from this city are handling a large amount of mail. According to figures compiled at the local postoffice for the last three months, ending June 30th, a total of 187,578 pieces of mail were handled during that time by the Rushville routes alone. This is considered an excellent showing as it is an average of 15,631½ pieces to the route.

EFFECT OF THE FOURTH OF JULY

Holiday Causes People to Spend Money After Which They Tighten for a Time

Business in the city has not fully recovered its usual basis since the Fourth. A slump in expenditures of money is noticeable in all classes of enterprise for a few weeks after the national holiday. This is caused by the disproportionate expenditures which the people make in preparations for the festive day, after which ready money seems to be scarce for a while.

James McKenney and family, of Shelbyville, spent Sunday the guest of friends here.

MATTERS TO COME BEFORE COUNCIL

The City Dads Will Hold Their Regular Meeting Tonight.

The city council will hold its second regular meeting for July tonight and the session promises to be a busy one. It is understood that more West Third street residents are to petition council for permission to construct their own walks on Third street.

Tonight is the night set for hearing Sixth street property owners regarding the assessments for the new walks recently constructed, and it is understood that an ordinance will be introduced requiring the C. H. & D. and the P. C. O. & St. L. to place a watchman or install a gate at their crossing in this city.

The petition filed by the employees at the water and light plant, asking an increase in wages will be considered tonight and the finance committee will report on the correctness of the city officials' reports submitted at the last meeting. City Attorney Young will also report on the Ryan claim.

HORSE STEALING AT NEW CASTLE

Thieves Have Been Having a Veritable Picnic in that City.

Horse stealing is becoming so common at New Castle that farmers are beginning to be alarmed and fear to leave their outfits unprotected. The last outrage was perpetrated Saturday night between 7 and 9 o'clock, when a horse and buggy was taken from a hitch rack on Race street. The outfit was owned by James Ledbetter, of Moreland. The matter was immediately reported to Marshal Mogul, but as there was absolutely no clue he could do little but notify surrounding towns of the theft. This makes four outfits which have been stolen in the past four months. Two of them were abandoned and were recovered. The boldest theft was that of the Bailey $400 outfit from the public square and no trace has ever been secured of it.

COLORED BARBER GETS A DUCKING

James Ferguson Goes to Sleep on Duty and is Soaked in Bath Tub

James Lucifer Ananias Hibernicus Ferguson, a colored barber employed at the Big Four shop on Main street, is given to the habit of wandering into the shades of dreamland each day under the warming influence of the afternoon sun, which sends its amber rays through the front windows of the shop and behooves Jim to stretch, turn over, and in a drowsy way, exclaim, "Please go away and let me sleep."

One day recently Jim went to sleep once too often. Allen Daniels, proprietor of the shop, was unable to rouse James from his slumbers, so he quietly filled one of the bath tubs in the rear of the shop. With the assistance of some of the other barbers in the shop James and his dreams were carried to the rear and laid to rest in the tub. Jim was then given an old-fashioned ducking, and when he awoke he was ready to change clothes. One day last winter James went to sleep in the shop. He was carried out into the street, and when he awoke he found himself lying in about three feet of snow. Since his ducking James has not been asleep while on duty.

SURGICAL OPERATION PERFORMED AT MANILLA

A delicate surgical operation was performed at Manilla Monday morning, the patient being Mrs. Bert Heisner, of that place. The work was done by Dr. Pfaff, of Indianapolis. In addition to the surgeon performing the work, there were present, Dr. Earnum, of Manilla, Dr. Sipe, of Carthage, and Dr. Waltermir, of Manilla. The operation was performed in a thoroughly satisfactory manner. The patient is resting well today and no serious results are feared.

A CHILD DIES FROM POISONING

Little Son of Robert Hartman
Ate Chlorodyne Tablets Yesterday.

In some manner, Robert, the eighteen-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hartman, living on the Cullen farm, west of the city, secured a number of chlorodyne tablets about 9:30 Monday morning, ate them before the mother discovered the act and died about 5:30 last evening.

The first that the parents noticed of the occurrence was shortly before 10 o'clock, when the baby drank a large amount of water. He then suffered great agony and lapsed into unconsciousness. Home remedies were applied but without avail. Dr. D. H. Dean was called at noon, but was unable to do anything for the baby. The child never regained consciousness. The funeral will be held at 2:30 tomorrow afternoon at the Catholic church, this city, with burial at Calvary cemetery.

The poison turned the child's body livid. One of the tablets, half eaten was found. As the Hartman family never used any of the tablets, they are supposed to have been left by a family named Richardson, which recently moved out of the house and went to Shelbyville. The tablets contained a mixture of morphine and chloroform and other dangerous drugs. The baby is supposed to have found the tablets on the floor or some other place, where they could be reached.

DULL TIMES DON'T MEAN IDLENESS

Present Time is Profitable
One Not with standing Appearance.

A merchant who keeps one of the largest dry goods stores in the city made the statement this morning that the dull season of the year, which most people will concede is right at present, is a profitable one withal to the merchant. Every minute of his time, the progressive merchant has his eye on a piece of money or else he is looking for a place where he can save a piece of money for verily:

"A piece of money saved is a piece of money earned," in modern mercantile parlance. The merchant is now laying in his stock of fall goods. Shoppers are quite often of the opinion that merchants do not order fall goods until fall comes. The merchant this morning said he already had in orders for goods that would be sold a year hence. These, of course, are staple goods which are as good then as now. A better selection may be obtained by buying in advance.

In the store, although trade is slack, the clerk has plenty to do. The clerks are set at sewing on tags and marking goods which are continually being put on the shelves. At this time of the year stores are renovated and cleared up. Left-over stock is culled out and marked down for the bargain counter. Everyone is virtually as busy as before when the store was crowded with customers.

Shall Niagara Be Destroyed?

It is startling to read in a technical magazine over the signature of an eminent engineer, the assertion that the New York Legislature has already granted permits sufficient to absorb every drop of water that flows on the American side of Goat Island, and the completion of the projected plants is only a question of time. It seems almost incredible that the universal sentiment of veneration with which the civilized world has regarded the stupendous wonder since its discovery by Father Hennepin in 1678 should have been so easily set at naught by the New York Legislature.

But an aroused public opinion may yet find a way to frustrate cupidity. Engineers have a scheme to deepen the American channel so that it may draw off a fair share of the upper river instead of the one-tenth part that it has always received.

It would be a crime against all that is highest and best in civilization if the vandal hand of sordid material progress should be suffered to despoil this great natural wonder of the new world, if not of the globe itself.

This has renewed in those who have seen the Falls a number of times to desire to once more visit this the greatest natural wonder of the world, and no description can ever prepare those who have never seen Niagara for the awe inspiring magnificence of this mighty cataract. No better opportunity will ever be offered the people to visit the Falls than that presented by the Lake Erie & Western Railroad on their Annual excursion Thursday, August 2. They are the pioneers in this business and offer an extremely low rate on this occasion. Each train will be under the supervision of men who have had years of experience, and these gentlemen will accompany the train to the Falls, which will insure the passengers every comfort.

RUSHVILLE, IND., JULY 17, 1906.

In the list of British notables who have given garden fetes and moonlight picnics in honor of Col. Bryan the name of Richard Croker is conspicuously absent. Can it be that the boss has lost his interest in American politics?

The only issue upon which the Democracy of all the States seem to be united is that National Chairman Taggart should resign. Tom says the suggestion is preposterous, and will not be heeded, especially since he gained a point in the suit against him by the State. Tom is still smiling.

A Democratic paper at Norfolk, Va., says that "If Bryan's Commoner doesn't shut up about free silver and the platform of '96, folks will get the idea that the whole 'graveyard' of dead issues is to be galvanized into a simulation of life to frighten the Democratic children of 1908." A ghost dance for two years is viewed with alarm by the long-headed members of the party.

Under the heading, "Depresses Dishonesty Only," the South Bend Times (Dem.) pays the following just tribute to the splendid practical Republican so-called anti-trust laws:

"Efforts have been made in Wall street to impress the country with the idea that the prosecution of trusts and their officials for violation of law are an attack upon capital, and produce a 'depressing' effect upon securities. These prosecutions have simply sought to punish for the past and deter in the future those corporations and their agents who have willfully and persistently violated the laws by giving and receiving special favors whereby legitimate competition is crushed out.

"Obedience to the laws requiring a square deal and equal opportunity for all will neither increase nor diminish the supply or demand for articles of production. It may lead to fairer and more equitable adjustments, but it certainly will not injure the prosperity of the country, not depress any legitimate enterprise. Enforcement of the laws against larceny and burglary probably has depressing influence on thieves and robbers, but it is a salutary depression so far as the community at large is concerned. So it is with this depression of dishonesty."

INSURANCE INVESTIGATION

State Wants to Know Where Policy Holders Stand.

Indianapolis, Ind., July 17.—The investigation here of the State Life Insurance company and the State Agency company by Auditor of State Bigler was started today. The work will be done by John Reed, settlement clerk in the auditor's office, and E. E. Parmelee, an expert accountant, who has been a member of Governor Hanly's investigation committee. These men were put on after Governor Hanly and Auditor Bigler had conferred as to what plan should be followed. The auditor said that the investigation would cover the methods of the two companies in writing insurance, and all their securities and investments. He also said that the investigation may furnish the basis for the enactment of some new insurance laws at the next session of the legislature.

The decision in the French Lick and West Baden gambling cases was not unexpected. In fact, it has been the general opinion throughout the French Lick valley since the gamblers' leases on the casinos were canceled last week that there was nothing on which the state could continue the assertion that the hotel companies were exceeding their charter rights. In appealing the case to the supreme court Attorney General Miller believes that the state has given sufficient cause for action and that the proceeding was regular. While the state has lost the preliminary round, the attorney general is confident that neither of the companies will dare to permit gambling while the case is pending in the supreme court. If the latter overrules Judge Buskirk the matter will revert to his court again and evidence will be introduced to show that the companies have violated all right to their charters. Mr. Miller said that Governor Hanly had practically accomplished his purpose, as gambling has been stopped. The state's representatives were very anxious to get a compromise with Taggart and Sinclair, so that a permanent injunction against gambling on their premises could be issued. With an injunction against them Taggart or Sinclair could have been dragged into court at any time for contempt if it were shown that gambling was going on there in any form. The state still has hope of forfeiting the charters of the two companies and compelling Taggart and Sinclair to run their places as individuals, in which case if gambling were renewed, they could be proceeded against under the ordinary criminal statutes against gambling.

The semi-annual bulletin of the board of state charities covering the records of the state institutions for the first half of the present fiscal year show a total enrollment of 10,367 persons, an increase of 52 over the preceding six months. The daily average attendance was 9,736, which was 263 greater than during the same period of last year. All institutions except the one for the deaf and dumb and the soldiers' and sailors' orphans' home, showed an increase. The attendance at the orphans' home is steadily decreasing. The institutions cost the state $856,564.67 during the period covered in the report.

Secretary Reiley of the Democratic state committee, said today that Wm. Jennings Bryan will speak at Fort Wayne, Indianapolis and Evansville on route home to Nebraska from New York. Arrangements for his Indiana tour will be made by Chairman O'Brien when he reaches New York. Reiley said 100 Democratic leaders are going to New York from Indiana to meet Bryan.

James W. Dunbar of New Albany, only avowed candidate for Republican congressional nomination in the Third district, formally announced his withdrawal because of business reasons. It is suspected, however, that Dunbar and other Republican leaders in the Third are becoming convinced that the Cox-Zenor trouble will be settled, so there will be only one Democratic candidate.

Senator Hemenway was here last night in conference with Chairman Goodrich, Governor Hanly, H. C. Starr and other Republican leaders. He is arranging to take an active part in the state campaign.

Strange Attack on Young Girl.

Marion, Ind., July 17.—This city is aroused over an atrocious attack upon Minnie Miller, the fifteen-year-old daughter of William Miller, who was seized by two unknown men on the street at 8 o'clock in the evening, and after being bound and drugged, was left lying in a ravine at the edge of the city, where she was found unconscious in the morning. Physicians say she was not the victim of a criminal assault. The child says the men demanded to know whether her father had any money.

Rojevsky's Rehabilitation.

St. Petersburg, July 17.—It is understood that Admiral Rojevsky, who was acquitted by court martial of the charge of cowardice in surrendering to the enemy after the battle of the Sea of Japan, will be restored to the active list of the navy and assigned to a prominent position on the technical committee of the navy.

WILL CARRY IT UP

State Gives Notice of Appeal In French Lick Springs Decision.

EARLY ACTION SOUGHT

Attorney General Miller Will Present His Appeal From Orange County Court's Decision at Once.

Lower Court Held That the State Had Not Made Good Its Case Against Big Hotels.

Paoli, Ind., July 17.—Judge Buskirk, rendered a decision in the French Lick and West Baden hotel quo warranto cases and sustained the defendants' demurrer on the third ground set forth that the injunction or complaint does not state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action. This is a victory for the hotels. The decision was in the case of the state, which asked a forfeiture of the charters of the French Lick and West Baden hotels.

The demurrer was overruled on the first and second causes, which set forth that the plaintiffs had no legal right to sue and that there was a defect on the part of the plaintiff in that Willard H. Koyles, prosecuting attorney for the Forty-second judicial district of Indiana, is not a proper relator, but Charles W. Miller, attorney general for Indiana, is the proper relator. The defendant was given an exception on each of the causes, while the state is given an exception on the third cause, concerning which the decision said: "I hold that the defense does not state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action against the defendant company, and I sustain defendants' demurrer as to the third cause assigned."

ATTORNEY GENERAL MILLER.

The third cause alleged that the suits had been predicated upon the wrong statute and should have been on Section 29 of the voluntary association act, which provided that before any such action can be brought the state should first act through the state auditor and make an examination of the defendants' books. The court held that this special act repealed the other act on which the state relied when filing the suits.

Attorney General Miller, who was present, gave notice of appeal to the supreme court and is sanguine that the action of this court will be overruled. The cases will be presented and action had in the supreme court as early as possible.

MILITARY MANEUVERS

Fort Benjamin Harrison to Be Scene of Soldierly Activity.

Indianapolis, July 17.—The first evidence of the approaching joint military maneuvers of the regular and volunteer forces attached to the Department of the Lakes was presented here when the Third battalion of the Fourth Infantry, U. S. A., commanded by Major John Tillson, entered Fort Benjamin Harrison and encamped on the eastern side of the reservation, where the First regiment of the Indiana national guard was stationed last year. There was little ceremony attached to the entrance of the troops. They quickly unfolded their packs and set up their pup tents for temporary quarters. The men marched across country from Fort Thomas, Ky., to Fort Harrison via Brookville and Rushville. There was little sickness en route and Major Tillson is feeling good over the report.

According to reports all of the regular soldiers that are to participate in the maneuvers at the seven concentration camps, of which Fort Benjamin Harrison is one, are now on the move from their home stations. The men are to march about 200 miles to each concentration camp, and at the close of the maneuvers will march home again. The volunteer troops are to be transported in trains.

This is practically a friendly proceeding because both sides of the case are anxious to have a decision of the higher courts on the rebate question.

Too Much Uncle

One of the most common vulgarisms of the day is the wholesale and indiscriminate claiming of kin by younger people with their seniors.

An elderly lady or gentleman, of whatever station or intelligence and however well preserved, is addressed by every rude young upstart met with, as "grandma," or "grandpa." And, before a man has passed his fiftieth year, he is astonished to meet so many nephews (?) along the highways of the country and the streets and alleys of the towns.

If one's pride of family is sometimes shocked when acknowledging a recreant and unworthy consanguineous kinsman, how justly repugnant to be saluted as "uncle" or "aunt," "grandpa" or "grandma" by every young smart Alexander one meets.

Snyder, the Kansas City promoter and capitalist, against whom revised charges have been filed.

Concord.

There was quite a hail storm around Concord, Wednesday. Mrs. Oren Powell was preparing a picnic supper on the table in a small Walnut grove in the grass lot east of her home. All was ready, but getting to the table. It was hastily covered with a large oil cloth. The hail stones fell thick and fast, and the wind blew at the rate of about sixty miles an hour. At times the table could not be seen, the storm being so fierce. Mrs. Powell expected to find nothing left when the storm abated, but aside from the damp linen, there was nothing amiss. The limbs and one large maple tree only a short distance from the table were blown down. The rain fell in torrents after the hail storm. The supper was enjoyed by Mr. Powell and family after the rain and hail subsided, to the delight of the children.

Talk about shredded fodder, there is not any comparison in the fields where the hail storm riddled the blades.

RUSHVILLE REMINISCENCE.

VIII.

Editor of the Republican:

There is one other little incident in connection with the old grave yard that I would like to relate. An incident that I presume but few of the present citizens will remember. Some however, who were young then and happened to be present may have been so impressed with the near approach to the realization of the expression—"Having fun at a funeral," that they may still have a very lively recollection of the incident.

But before I relate that incident I beg to be allowed to say a few words by way of explanation, partly personal to myself. Several times lately I have been mentioned in the columns of the Republican as a singer, one of the "old school" in the "olden days." So kind and flattering have been the terms in which the partiality of my good friends has induced them to speak of me that I feel that I may be pardoned if, in the present letter I have occasion to speak of myself as figuring in the role of a singer.

I disclaim, however, the high honor given me of being the best vocalist in the place at that time, claiming no special distinction or pre-eminence of talent or ability in that line. I am fully contented and happy to be recognized as one of the singers of Rushville at that early day, proud to have been associated with a few genial and congenial souls who courted the same muse and worshipped at the same shrine with myself. There were several whose claims to recognition were at least equal, if not superior to my own. Perhaps we might all have been very fittingly classed with the Romans to whom Paul said speaking, of the "unknown God," "whom therefore ye ignorantly worshipped."

And while I would avoid any invidious distinctions I feel that duty, justice and long and pleasant associations impel me to speak of a few who merit far more than my feeble pen can give them. Finley Bigger of whom I have freely spoken in former letters was a singer of no common or ordinary qualifications. With a clear, smooth voice, capable of reaching a high register and with his cool, steady possession of himself he was an admirable ideal leader. Miss Bigger, his charming daughter, who, I am told afterward became the wife of Dr. Pugh, possessed a voice of rare beauty and sweetness. As a contralto she had no equal in town or country and she strongly and fully held up that part in a quartette of which she was at that time a very important member.

Jesse D. Carmichael was one of the best untrained bass singers I ever listened to. With these three, feebly assisted and supported by my humble self as tenor, I will venture to say at the risk of being charged with egotism (though eliminating myself as much as possible) that the Presbyterian church of Rushville and perhaps a good many other places has often held service since that day, with music far inferior to that furnished by the humble quartette of which I am still proud to have been a member.

But to the incident with which I started out in connection with the old grave yard. And while I am still found "dwelling among the toms" I, like the mad Gadarine, after being healed am clothed and (partly at least) in my right mind. The incident I want to relate was a funeral and burial in the old grave yard. A citizen of the place had died, a man whose name I have forgotten, but who was nevertheless a prominent man, well respected and whose funeral was very largely attended. Services were held at the house of the deceased and, at its close and when they were arranging to start to the graveyard, it was remembered that a request had been made by the deceased that a certain song should be sung at the grave.

It quickly developed that there was but one person in the audience that could sing the song. Ann Lakin was there, and she could sing it and sing it beautifully too, but hers was rather a contralto than a soprano voice and not suited to lead. And even if she had been able to lead, there were none to follow. Besides, she was a woman, and at that faraway period of the "dark ages" it was simply inconceivable and intolerable that a woman, especially a young woman should aspire to leadership in any exercises or entertainment whatever.

They were in a quandary, and what could they do? The preacher, Brother Sabin of the Methodist church, suggested that Ann try it alone and others would perhaps join in and help a little. But Ann knew better than to undertake it and have it all spoiled by some one who may have learned a little of the song by hearing some one else sing it. Ann knew that I could sing it, as we had sung it together, in fact I had taught her the music of the song.

It was a new song and quite difficult to master, requiring a somewhat flexible voice to slip smoothly around the bold curves and slurs and sudden octave jumps up and down the scale. Ann thought quickly and whispered to the preacher, and a messenger was sent, "post haste" after me. Fortunately he found me on the street, fairly well rigged up so that no time was lost in getting ready.

I went at once to the house, joined the company and the march was taken up for the grave yard. Sabin did the talking and Ann and I did the singing, acquitting ourselves to our own satisfaction at least, and I may venture to say from what we heard of it afterwards, to the satisfaction of the company, that's those who heard it, for all did not hear it as you shall see.

But Sabin did not have quite as smooth sailing as we had. I have mentioned in a former letter that the place had grown up thick with briars. There were blackberry bushes and it was in the heart of blackberry season and the bushes were full.

No sooner had we got into the gate that the crowd, no longer afraid with so many present, began to scatter and break for the blackberry bushes and it was almost impossible to hold enough of them together to decently bury the man. Brother Sabin (Quaker as he was) was something of a wag and got off this witticism before dismissing the company, "I am very sorry to see that so many of our company have seemingly forgotten the solemn object of our coming together and turned the occasion into one of pleasure and self-indulgence. But I remember that there are two ways of spelling the word 'bury' and the most of the company seem to have taken the one way off spelling the word than the one we intended when we made the announcement of the burial."

Then he dismissed the congregation and the most of them remained to complete their berrying, while the funeral cortege proper took up their sorrowful march back to town. Ann and I considered ourselves at least an annex to the funeral and consequently had to file out with the others and go back to town with them and never got a single blackberry. They would have been a "God-send" at that time for our throats were fairly parched from the singing.

Forty years afterward I ran across Brother Sabin down on the Ohio river in the Southern part of the State and we had a good laugh together over the episode of the double burying.
